DALLAS, Nov. 30.—(P)—Gunmen robbed A. R. Graham, manager of the F. W. Woolworth store, of a $1,-400 bank deposit on a busy street here today.

The two robbers accosted Graham as he emerged from the store's side entrance. They snatched the money bag, jumped into a waiting automobile and fled.

Two blocks away the robbers nearly ran down a pedestrian. Police followed their course through the downtown district by the wildness of their driving. The last report placed the pair going through an underpass lead-ing to a viaduct across the Trin-ity river.

Graham said both robbers men-aced him with automatic pistols. He said one of the men felt inside his Graham's) coat and took a pistol he carried to meet just such emergencies.

Santa Claus Parade Planned To Formally Open Holiday Season STATES NO AMERICAN CONFLICT THAT CANNOT BE

"Santa Claus Is Coming to Town."

This announcement on the part of the business men of Corsicana on Saturday morning, climaxed several weeks and months of preparations, and left only time for a hasty farewell to the memories of "Turkey Day" as all members of all families in all classes awoke to the realization that after this week only twenty-one shopping days remain before Christmas.

Necessity of preparing for the greatest holiday in the history of the world with all of its thousands of timehonored traditions began to make impressions on many residents of Corsicana and Navarro county when various stores began to announce the opening of their special holiday goods sections, and to push away stocks of staple merchandise in favor of the most extensive displays of of Christmas offerings in many years.

of Christmas offerings in many Santa Claus Parade.

And then came the renewed announcement that Santa Claus and his aides, both local and foreign, sedate and comical, would be in Corsicana to participate in a great parade on Saturday, December 12, less than two weeks before the great occasion. The patron said of the Yuletide will be accompanied by a corps of helpers from the Gainesville Community Circus, and will be joined in Corsicana by many local organizations, all co-operating to bring the greatest happiness to the most people in the history of any Christmas this section of the state has known.

Christmas this section of the state has known.

Again Santa's appearance is being sponsored by the Corsicana Chamber of Commerce through its trade extension committee, with the co-operation of every merchant in the city, regardless of his line of merchandise. They recalled that thousands of people were drawn to Corsicana last year by Santa's visit, and are making preparations for an even greater event this year. Enlisting of the support of Corsicana business men for the project is scheduled to start Monday morning under the direction of F. C. Paul.

Additional Details.

Details of the parade will be announced early next week, and even now plans are under way for the addition of an extensive livestock section featuring some of the blooded horses now grazing on Navarro county pastures as well as many of the favorite mounts of citizens of the county. Fred M. Allison will be commander of this section of the paracle.

A recent survey of Corsicana stores showed that nearly every

CORSICANA, TEX., DEC. 1, 1936

ANNUAL TREE HARVEST

Christmas trees are being marketed earlier than usual this year. The first are not going into homes, however. They are wanted chiefever. They are wanted chief-ly for store trimming. The railroads were moving trees for the purpose long before Thanksgiving Day. Families, as a rule, do not begin to pick their holiday trees before Dec. 15.

One of the pleasant things about the generous use of Christmas trees in recent years is the fact that it represents less forest destruction than it used to. More trees are raised especially for the Christmas trade and harvested like any crop, level. These figures are with planting for future, harvests definitely planned. Popular interest in live Harry Hopkins has pointed trees from nurseries has out, they don't mean all helped. So has the custom of decorating living trees in front yards. Public education and practice have worked for conservation instead of the old reckless raids on forests.

NUMEROUS HAPPY THANKSGIVING CORSICANA RESPONDS Retail Sales For

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—(Spl.)

—Retail sales in the Gulf South-west as refrected by reports from 1.038 independent stores in Texas, Oklahima, and New Mexico, in-creased 22 per cent in dollar vol-ume for October 1936 as compared with October 1936 as compared with October 1935.

Festus A. Pierce, chairman of the annual Red Cross Roll call for the city of Corsicana, stated Fri-day morning that the response to the 1936 campaign for member-ships to this great relief and wel-fare organization had been ex-cellent, and that when all reports are in it is expected that the total This preliminary estimate is based on figures collected by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic ships to this great relief and welfare organization had been excellent, and that when all reports are in it is expected that the total will exceed that of last year and reach well toward the goal, after the county campaigns have been completed and reported upon. These reports are usually slow in coming in.

The advance contributions committee reported a total of $274 in their campaigns and the contributions comported sales for 54 stores the larger included in miscellane of the city.

The advance contributions committee reported a total of $774 in their campaign, which is a most excellent report. A total of $375 has been reported from the soliciting committees, with many committees yet to report and some not yet having completed canvas, of the teritrory assigned to them. Without the booth reports which have not yet been made to Mr. Pierce he already has accounted for a total of $459, and confidently expects this amount to reach at least $1,000 when all reports are in.

A number of people have telephoned Mr. Pierce that they were not at home when the committee members give just a little more time to the canvass and try and contact all who have not been sen in their territory. Little if any canvassing was done on the opening day of the drive due to the rain that fell practically all day.

Does it, for instance, depend on changing expression for charm? Just how many changing expressions has your face, any-how? Stand yourself up in front of a mirror and briefly play out to yourself a variety of scenes involving such emotions as hate, love, fear, happiness, sorrow, surprise, and so on and watch what happens to your face with each emotion.

But if it is just wooden, why then perhaps it had better be nicely painted wood. You can console yourself by remembering that the wooden type of face is fashionable these days, and for proof go to the movies, where you will see them extremely beautiful and extremely wooden. But if you haven't that sort of face, the other type is certainly refreshing.

Do you know that there are two muscles in your face to express disagreeable emotions? These are the muscles that give the droopy downward lines that produce the frowns, the sagging mouth, the wrinkles of middle age. The other muscles produce upward lines, happiness.

SIR BASIL ZAHAROFF DIED RESULT HEART

WEALTH OF ALLEGED MAK-TRENDS HIGHLY INDEFINITE ER AND BREAKER OF KINGS GAINED IN MUNITIONS GAME

MONTE CARLO, Nov. 27.

By VICTOR EUBANK
NEW YORK, Nov 30.—(P)—
After stumbling over light selling during the greater part of toments salesman, died here yesterday.

Sir Basil, whose fortune was built largely from his armament, shipbuilding, oil and banking enterprises, was once reputed to have had a controlling interest in the Monte Carlo gambling concessions, but he never gambled him-war materials manufacturers.

Letters from the "confidant of chancellors" were said to have been found in the files of some of the leading munitions makers of the United States.

First Activities.
Zaharoff's entrance into international affairs appears to have been made in the early seventies when he was reported to have supplied contraband arms to Egypsupplied contraband arms to Egyptian and Upper Nile insurgents. Soon afterward he became agent in Athens for Vickers and Company, arms manufacturers, and in a reserved way was force in Greek politics. He gave and subscribed the equivalent of millions of dollars to help Greece in the Balkan wars. His sisters, Mile. Zoe Zaharoff and Mme. Sevastiwere well known socially in the were well known socially in the

During the world war, Sir Basil was in influential figure. He was a generous donor to the poor of Paris. He founded professorships of aviation at Universities of Paris, Leningrad and London, and was interested in a professorship of French literature at Cyford and a chair of English literature at the Paris University. He held the degree of Doctor of Laws in the University of Paris and Doctor of Civil Law in Oxford University.

Romance Blossomed.

The flower of Zaharoff's romen was for the palace at Madrid in the late eighties.

Lady Zaharoff in her own right was reputed to be one of the richest women in Spain.

Physicians ascribed death to a heart attack. His adopted daughter, the Countess De Bourbon. was at his bedside.

Employes of the hotel said Sir Basil collapsed in the arms of his valet as the latter was dressing him following his morning bath. He died shortly thereafter. Officials of the principality indicated the Prince of Monaco would order all flags placed at half staff. One of the many mysteries of Sir Basil's death, in fact, the first, was apparently cleared up tonight by a death certificate. This gave the place and date of his birth—never known exactly, as Phanaz, Turkey, October 20, 1850.

Mystery Man of Europe. Sir Basil Zaharoff, "the mystery man of Europe," gained his vast wealth and his reputation as "maker and breaker of kings," through imagitation-shattering deals in armaments and munitions.

During the last years of his life, two of the world's great powers sought to draw aside the principal through the cloudier foreign scene an imprortant factor in attracting customers to the sidelines.

Bonds were a bit uneven. Grains and cotton pushed upward, apparently reflecting the building up of reserves by European countries with their eyes on war dangers. Foreign currencies were slightly improved in terms of the dollar.

READY FOR CONGRESS OPENING

By JOHN FISCHER WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—(R)—With the opening of the 75th congress. only six weeks away, a score of congressional leaders were hammering together today the framework of a heavy legislative program program.

Although President Roosevelt has given little indication of the measures he will suggest, it appeared certain that congress would consider at least six major proposals:

4. A new neutrality act, to replace the present law expiring May 1.
5. A relief bill which probably will be offered by the president late in the session.
6. Modifications of the Tennessee Velley act are suggested by

GOODYEAR BLIMP MAKING TWO DAY VISIT CORSICANA

"RESOLUTE" ATTRACTING MUCH ATTENTION FLY-ING OVER CITY

Goodycar's blimp "Resolute," landed at the old municipal ball park at 11:30 Monday morning, and its crew of three pilots and 10 and its crew of three pilots and 10 ground men made preparations for a two-day stay in Corsicana. "Recolute" had been in Dallas (he past three weeks, and will leave early Wednesday morning for a week's stay in Houston, before going to Florida for the winter.

The ship was brought to Corsicana through the efforts of Leon Daniels, Goodycar representative here.

Daniels, Goodycar representative here.
Captain F. A. Trotter is in charge of the ship, but remained in Dallas today on business. Other pilots with the ship here are John Ricker, Larry Furcolow and Bill Hudson. The ten ground men preceded the "Resolute" here in a company service truck and six automebiles equipped with trailers.

automobiles equipped with trailers.

Mr. Daniels went to Dallas Sunday night and flew down Monday in the blimp.

The ship has a capacity of 112,000 cubic feet of helium gas, and is powered with two Warner 125 horsepower motors. The cabin carries six passengers and one pilot. It has a cruising speed of 50 miles per hour, and a top speed of 65 miles per hour. Deflated the entire ship weighs three tons, but filled with helium the weight is nil.

but filled with helium the weight is nil.

It is made of three-ply rubberized fabric, and is of non-rigid construction. The cabin and motors are supported by steel cables which are attached to other flexible steel cables extending from one end of the ship to the other, worked into the fabric.

Of especial interest is the ship's arrangement to prevent over-expansion of the bag during hot weather. Above the cabin, inside the bag is another fabric bag, which is filled with air. As heat expands the helium gas, it forces air out of the other bag through an exhaust unit. As the gas contracts a valve is opened, admitting air to the second bag through two chutes just behind the propellers, to tighten up the outside bag.

Passengers will be taken up during the two days the "Resolute" facts relative to law and tradition governing the royal marriages of Great Britain.

Could King Edward Be Stopped From Marrying Mrs. Simpson When Her Divorce Decree Is Final?

In the first place, there is no British law prohibiting remarriage of a divorced person. There is, however, an issue involved based on whether officials of the church of England, which by established law usually conducts royal marriages, feel that such a union as that discussed between King Edward and Mrs. Simpson can be performed according to dictates of their conscience.

Chief responsibility for deciding what actlon the Church of England would take in the hypothetical matter would probably rest with the Archbishop of Canterbury. And there are strong indications that the archbishop would look with extreme disfavor on such an alliance and possibly go so far as to refuse to have the marriage solemnized in church.

It was in 1932 that he expressed himself as opposed to the church solemnizing the marriage of any was previced. himself as opposed to the church solemnizing the marriage of any person who had been divorced and whose ex-mate was still alive. Rumors have also circulated suggesting that the Archbishop of Canterbury might even decline to officiate at coronation ceremonies of King Edward next May be-cause of the situation created by Mrs. Simpson.

LONDON.—Interest aroused by current conjecture as to whether King Edward VIII will marry Mrs.
Ernest Simpson when her divorce decree is final next May brings to light a number of interesting facts relative to law and tradition governing the royal marriages of grant of Great Britain.

As far as parliament is content and that that that that that the has showered her with the has showered her with that he has showered her with that he has showered her with that he has showered her with the has showered her with that he her has showered her with that he set aside—$200,000 going to a fund to provide for a provisional future queen and $400,000 being appropriated for any future Prince

Commoner Can Become Queen. There is only one reservation to royal marriage which gives parliament the power to act. Under terms of the Bill of Rights of 1689, the sovereign is excluded from the throne if he becomes, or marries, a Roman Catholic, but this provision does not enter into the current "controversy" since

Mrs. Simpson is a Protestant. Nor is there anything in English law prohibiting the marriage of the king to a commoner. In fact, unless one is either of royal rank or a peer of the realm, anyone in Britain is a commoner.
And two of the king's brothers married commoners. It was established at the wedding of the Duke of York that his wife, who was previously a commoner was Duke of York that his wife, who was previously a commoner, was due a status equal to her husband's after the marriage. This being the case, Mrs. Simpson would rank as Queen Wallis with full privileges of royalty were she to become the queen-consort of King Edward VIII.

OIL INDUSTRY OF NATION IN ITS BEST CONDITION IN YEARS

IN OIL PRICE

ALL FACTORS DECLARED BE POINTING TOWARD INCREASE

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 30.—

(P)—The nation's oil industry is in the best financial position it has been for years, with all factors pointing to increases in the price of oil, Charles F. Roeser, Fort Worth, president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, said today.

The official's optimism was disclosed as he opened the 1936 convention of the organization here with oil men expecting more than 1,000 representatives of the industry to be registered before the meeting closes tomorrow night.

Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, California and Michigan already were represented in the list of delegates with more still arriving.

Roeser, reviewing the past year in the oil industry based his prediction of higher crude prices on: One—A reduction in oil imports to more nearly a ration where they can be absorbed by American consumers without upsetting the price of oil.

Two—Movement of excess oil in storage during the last year without unbalancing the price structure.

Three—Reduction in waste of without unbalancing the price structure.

Three—Reduction in waste or oil and gas production activities so that net profits to the companies will be larger.
Use of domestic asphalt, in competition with the foreign product, has shown a sharp increase, Roeser reported.

has shown a sharp increase, Roeser reported.

He cited the reduction of the number of suggestions for nationalization of the oil industry in order to prevent waste of an irreplacable natural resource. He urged the oil men to continue methods for production without waste, for keeping oil in natural storage beneath the surface until needed, and conserving resources.

Roeser urged the oil men to consider their responsibility as industrial employers to use their new prosperity to put men to work.
